

QUESTIONS
TO THINK AND TALK ABOUT
Video: Roachzilla
*Description Nonfiction Text Structure
(main idea and details)*

Questions to Think and Talk About After Viewing the Video:

- What is description text structure?
- What text features did the author use to help support her description?
- How do signal words help Cali makes sense of the text?
- Why might this process help you make sense of text?
- When might this process be useful?
- What are three types of sensory words an author might use to help make his/her descriptions more clear?
- What are three types of signal words an author might use to help his/her reader understand their reading better?
- What are three types of nonfiction text features that an author might use to help organize the information he/she is presenting?
- How will understanding description text structure help you make sense of information when you read?

View the related video: Roachzilla Returns to learn more about Description Nonfiction Text Structure.